Mr. Conkling—If it is in order for me to respond to my honorable friend, I am instructed by others who know in each instance that one of the absences will be here to-morrow, two of them probably on Monday, and the last of them by either Tuesday night scmetime or Wednesday morning, so that really the whole question is whether we should attempt to anticipate by four and-twenty or eight-and-forty hours the moment when the senate will be full. That is the question I understood the honorable senator to ask me, and I have answered it according to the best information I have.

tend to be very much interested in the right of the negro to vote at the south, Augusta Chronicle.

His excellency, Governor Colonitt, visited Augusta yesterday in an official capacity, connected with the all-absorbing convict system of Georgia. He visited the camp of convicts near the city, personally inspecting them, and questioning each man as to his condition, treatment and length of service. Of this visit of the governor, personally, to the management of the convicts, the keepers had received no notification, and a flue opportunity was presented of ascertaining the true state of things. The governor seems of the commonwealth from misuse and from cruelty. In the last campaign this important subject was againsted to its depths, and although several officials connected with the lease were unjustly arraigued, as dre entiresty abused, if was not without its good effects upon iessees and keepers The penitentiary committee of the isst legislature promised full investigation and report for the extra a sion, and the general assembly, at that time, will be Intelligently guided in shaping legislation, if any is needed, by the valuable experience of Governor Colquitt's personal inspection. The negroes at the north, as a general thing, have had all the advantages of freedom and education for a long series of years; but how many of them are allowed to hold office at the north? What northern or western t would seem, after all the professions of interest and friendship which the republican party has made that it would be somewhat liberal with the negroes with respect to offices, but in the whole north and west the negroes who hold offices can be counted on the fingers of one hand. In the whole north and west experience of Governor Colquitt's personal inspection. It will be a matter of satisfaction to the governor, as well as of gratification to all georgians, that he is taking such active, earnest interest in the subject.

The governor was accompanied in his visit by Mr. John W. Neims, the efficient keeper of the penitentiary of Georgia, than whom no man has more experience in the conduct of this convict system, and no one more interested in and appreciative of the duties of the position. Whatever may have been imprudently said of him in the exci ed canvass gone by, those who knew him never doubted his interrity, his carnessness, and no one can impeach his kindness of heart. Mr. Neims, setterday, called the attention of the governor to several convicts who were confined to the hospital, and at his suggestion pardons were granted by his prospected number of the house of alloyether they are prospected number of the house of alloyether arther than the distribution, commendable and satisfactory. but one negro is a member of a legislature. The horror of Mr. Conkling over the partisan precedures of the temporary majority of the sense ate is of a sort to make even Dorney laugh. Even Mr. Conking would scarcely have the courage to deny that if the republicans had the same advantage in the senate which the democrats now have they would make quite at least as much use of it as the democrats are now making. It would perhaps be better—if the two parties c uid be got to consent to stuch a process—that a senate which now is and which is to be so evenly divided should be obtained under some system of adjust now in a superior of the senate of the senate which has capabilities. But it two most appropriate to the concernity of the senate of the republicans. Mr. Hill nextly "dropped" Mr. Conkling, on his reminder that there were four vacancies in the senate soon be filled by the quiet remark that, whis one of these vacancies had been created by a republican president. Moreover, even the temporary control of a legislative body is a legitimate par y avant sage which income who enjoy it would be biameworthy if they did not use. Senator Brown's Views.

Knoxville Chronicle, rep.

Senator Brown, of Georgia, does not share in the jealousy and opinions of the bourbons. He thinks that the administration of President Garfield starts out under the brightest auspices. The country is prosperous, and he says "no section is dissatisfied." On the whole he regards the new administration as having bright prospects. We commend his words to the hard shelled partisans with thick craniums, as worthy of their study, if they are capable of such a thing. Mr. Brown is a democrat and a southern man. He is a man of wealth, and all his interests are in the south. No me but a lunatic would accuse him of being unfriendly to the south. He is a man of intelect, and knows what he is talking about. We believe he represents the sentiments of a large majority of the real people of the south. And negroes with school-books in their hands, education. In point of fact, Sena makes the negro lazy and shiftless sportly of the real people of the south. While we have a profound respect for Dr. Felton's abilities and have no doubt he would make a fine chief of the agricultural department, a -d would be the last to interpose an objection to such a disposition of that high office, still the inquiry is naturally suggested, what claim has Dr. Felton on republican administration? Letter From Mr. Hill.

Letter From Mr. Hill.

Letter States Are Chamber, Washington. January 31, 1881. To the Editor of The An crica: sir: I one you an apoloxy for not answering your several letters sooner. I have been in doubt as to what I could do or ought to do at this time as to the matter you suggest. I appreciate very highly your desire for purer politics and a better sectional feeling. I know of nothing which should more interest a patriot. cut for reasons which I am not at liberty fully to express to you at this time. I think I can render better service, even in the direction suggested, than by writing communications for the public.

I have reason to hope we are on the eve of better things in our politics. I shall be seriously disappointed if we do not make much progress upward in our politics in the next four years. The work to be done is not spirit the work in the work to be done is not spirit the work must begin elsewhere—eith leaders. I can say no more at present.

This much I will now say: The great error of the north towards the south since the war has consisted in invising that the southern people desired to destroy the government, and were actuated by a treasonable or criminal intent. Our people had been taught to believe and did believe that secession was a right reserved to, or not spirredered by the states, and they sought to exercise it in delense of a property informately recognized by the constitution. I did not concur with them in this view of secession, or its availability as a means of defence; tut they were honest in their views, and thought they had a right to leave the union with twenty-seven states, which began with intent. It never occurred to them that this was destroying the union. Thousands of northern men, in every generation since the continuous was formed, had taught the doctrine the contest settled the issue against the south. The control and abandoned the doctrine of security of rec ful discoveries, which could, upon slight investigation, have been ascertained to be true ten years ago.

But white this immigration of northern men is desired, we do not want our condition or motives misunderstood. We are not in distress, calling for help. We welcome the energy and explain of the north as we welcoma them from any other source; and we know that they will seek us or not, from any source, according as it may be to their interest to do so. All we ask is that the facts concerning the south which will decide this question of interest may not continue to be misrepresented, other carelessity or wilfully, to the civilized world.
This energy and this capital, if they come, will hasten our progress; but our future is assured, even it left to ourselves. Our climate (another north, is sold healthful and piessant, subject to

The opinions of some to the contrary notwithstanding, the people of Georgia are cut of debt

Shoenfeld's Improved Medicated Stock Feed. A RELIABLE CURE FOR

MANY AILMENTS WHICH AFFLICT BEASTS AND FOWLS. As a tonic and spring alterative it has no equal—loosens the hide of mules and horses, and is of great essistance to them in shedding the hair. Is almost a specific in hide bound, sore head, roup, lung fever, loss of appetite, gravel and kidney disease; in fact it gives the animal a general cleaning out and puts him in good trim for the sumer's work. For cholera in fowls and hogs it has no equal. We havebeen selling the article for two years or more, and the results from its use have been most satisfactory in every instance. Put up in package of one pound—price 25 cents.

I have used Shoenfeid's Stock Feed on my horses with the best results. I had one horse turned over to me for which the owner would have taken $25, and after treating him with the Stock Feed for two weeks, I consider him worth $150. My wife has tried it, also, on her chickens, which were dying rapidly with cholera, and she did not lose one after giving the first dose. Yourstrufty rapidly with cholera, and she did not lose one after giving the first dose. Yourstrufty rapidly with cholera, and she did not lose one after giving the first dose. Yourstrufty rapidly with cholera, and would some after giving the first dose. Yourstruft with the Stock Feed one for some time, and would say for the benefit of those that have never used it, they would be astonished as to its merits. I used it on Milch Cows, it fattens and increases the quantity and quality of both milk and butter. I have used it also on my poultry with wonderful effect. Yours trufy,

She gives now over two gallons of milk, with a good prospect of increasing. Notwithstanding the prejudice I entertained for other powders that I had tried, and which proved worthless, I do not hesitate to indorse your invention as being all you claim for it.

Evadue,

Evadue.

A very large, and certainly a very brilliant, audience was drawn to DeGive's opera house last night, to greet the young tragedienne whose personations have recently moved to enthusiasm the cold and critical andiences of Boston, in the title role of Shels' "Evadae," a play that treats of a licentious monarch and a beautiful woman, whom he seeks to betray.

Miss Anderson possesses much beauty, a good voice, clear enunciation, is pliant and graceful in acting, is excellent in her reading, easy in her gestures, and in her youth has a prestige and advantage. In her impersonation of Evadue she showed depth of feeling strong tragic ebullition, and gave a conscientious conception of the part for which nature has given her very nearly every physical prerequisite. Last out the statue scene, where in her dress of chastify she meets the warer of purple an' protests against her own dishonor, she arouses all the true heroism and nobleness in the king's nature, causes him to give nuhis unmanly pursuit. 'Tis then she enthuses all present and made them feel last night the playing at the sympathetic chords of their own hearts. In recognition of her beauty, grace and fine acting the andierce dealt a generous mead of praise. Miss Anderson may not have reached the highest ideal of some who heard and saw her last night, and there may have been a deficiency of some little things, which are essential to complete symmetrical acting, yet her rendition of Evadne was classic and chaste, and it must be remembered that she is yet fresh in her youth and the brightness of her talent, and if true to herself, why may she not attain an eminent place in her chosen profession?

Mr. Levick played Colonna most effectively, and Mr. Downing was acapital Ludovico. The other characters were very well sustained.
